

Disagreement Called National Calamity

Aurora—"Surely we can find the vision which will make possible a just and generous settlement of our differences. There is still hope. Canada is now a nation. We alone are masters of our fate," declared Wilfred Adams, history master of Aurora high school to the Aurora Lions club at their annual Education Night dinner. Mr. Adams spoke on Dominion-Provincial Relations. The male members of the Aurora high school and public schools were guests of the club.

Tracing the story of dominion-provincial relations back to the time of confederation, Mr. Adams pointed out that legislative union was rejected in favor of a federal union, largely because Quebec insisted on provincial governments to guard and protect provincial interests.

"The key to the understanding of the attitude of Quebec on national and political issues is that she stands immovable on the bedrock of provincial rights, the right to control exclusively religion, language, education and civil and property rights," he said. "Did the fathers of confederation make and intend a loose or strong federation? The conclusion must be that they planned a strong confederation. The B.N. Act gave the provinces control over 18 specific matters only, with all the residue and the overriding authority 'to legislate for peace, order and good government of the country.'"

"In allocating taxing powers, the fathers of confederation seemed to give the federal government unquestioned authority to deal with all national problems. The provinces seemed limited to direct taxation only," Mr. Adams said.

"A decision of the privy council in recent years has greatly extended the powers of the provinces under the matter of civil and property rights with no corresponding powers of taxation to take care of added duties. The great economic and social changes of the 20th century have meant increased population, expanded roads and highways and a widening education problem, along with municipal problems to the provinces. Government expenditures have been increased greatly year by year with the burden largely on the provinces and in bad times the load was almost unbearable for some, resulting in the practical bankruptcy of some provinces and municipalities in the 30's."

"In 1937," he said, "the Rowell-Sirois commission was appointed with a wide scope for its investigations. The first provincial conference was held in 1941 but the war was at its worst and it was charged that the conference was impairing the war effort. Mitchell Hepburn, then premier of Ontario, said that 'it is unthinkable to me that we should be fiddling while London burns'. The conference broke up but the provinces made temporary financial agreements with the dominion in line with some of the commission's recommendations," Mr. Adams continued.

"When the second dominion-provincial conference was held, the conditions had greatly changed and required a fresh approach. Mr. King said, 'The federal government is not seeking to weaken the provinces. We are asking them to go into partnership with us in a broad program for the development of our national heritage and the promotion of the welfare of the Canadian people. Some provinces were eager for a settlement, others objected to detail, but Ontario and Quebec seemed to object to the fundamental principles of the dominion government's offer. We do not claim that the provinces have not good cases. There are two sides to every question but having in mind the whole national interest, we think some of the provinces might have taken a larger view,' Mr. King said.

"The dominion government was charged with wielding the big stick and adopting a take it or leave it attitude and with aiming at centralization. Mr. Duplessis, Quebec, said 'Centralization leads to Hitlerism, we cannot centralize'.

"The conference was killed by the hammer of provincial rights on the anvil of centralization fears," declared Mr. Adams. "The sword of the B.N. act is two edged. It protects provincial rights, it also protects dominion rights and one side may be sharper than the other. Without assessing too much blame to either side, we can hardly consider the failure to reach an agreement less than a national calamity," Mr. Adams concluded.

June Adams, winner of the Aurora high school oratorical contest who represented the Aurora Lions club in the district oratorical contest, delivered her address to the club. A prize of $10 was presented by the club to Miss Adams with the runner-up, Willson Critchton, being awarded a prize of $5.

Has 70th Anniversary As Church Chorister

By GOLDEN GLOW

On Sunday, March 31, 1877, a small boy, just four years old, was led by the hand of an elderly lady up the chancel steps of a thousand-year-old Norman church in Wisborough Green, Sussex, England. This was an important day in the life of that small boy, marking, as it did, the start of his career as a chorister.

That small boy was Frank Edward Streeter, son of John Streeter, a jeweller and clock maker, well known throughout Sussex and a member of a larger family, every member of which was musical. Practically all were members of the church choir so the small boy came naturally into his career as a chorister.

At the age of six he sang his first solo and his clear, true voice attracted the attention of Madame King, a prima donna of that date. For the next ten years he assisted him freely and generously from her fine experience and training. His marked ability put him also into prominent parts in amateur theatricals.

Later, in his teens, Dr. Read, organist and choirmaster of Chichester Cathedral, gave him advanced training and presented him to Sir Frederick Bridge of Westminster as a promising soloist. These two great musical authorities spent three days discussing his future. They knew he could take alto or tenor with equal ease and his extremely high pitched voice led them to decide he could do his most efficient work as a male alto, while his temperament and disposition pointed to church music rather than secular.

Dr. Arnold, the organist and choirmaster of Winchester Cathedral, England, tested his voice with the mighty organ there, an

COLLIDES WITH TRUCK

Newmarket—Johnny Boyd, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Boyd, Main St., collided with a Strathdee Transport truck yesterday afternoon, but according to his mother, no bones were broken and the youngster was able to eat a hearty breakfast this morning. "He just received a bad bump on the head which at first we thought might have been a concussion," Mrs. Boyd said. "The accident was all Johnny's fault—he was playing out in front of the house and suddenly just darted out in front of the truck."

Anticipate Early Start On Hart Company Site

Aurora — George Hart, Hartford, Conn., president of the Hart Manufacturing Company, has been in Aurora this week completing the arrangements for an early start on the firm's new plant on Edward St.

The Aurora Building Company, which has the contract, is expected to commence building operations in a few weeks, and the plant should be completed and ready to start manufacturing by mid-summer. A new roof is being put on and a new floor installed at the Inner Spring Mattress plant on Wellington St., formerly occupied by the R.C.O.C. Depot. Officials of the firm expect to be ready to begin operations around May 1. A resident has been engaged as caretaker of the building, and one or two local citizens have already been promised employment at the plant. Local labor will be used as much as possible, it is understood.

The balance of the R.C.O.C. Depot, owned by Leonard Grove of Toronto, is reported as sold at $45,000 to the Queen City Storage Company of Toronto. The firm at present operates at 138 Pears St., Toronto, with W. Ayres as general manager. The Aurora branch will be used in conjunction with the Toronto plant, and around 10 or 15 persons may be employed at Aurora. Operations will not start until May.

Aurora is also to have a new south-end motor show-room and service station. Walter Milgate, local general motors dealer, has purchased property immediately north of Walter Dunning on the east side and will commence building soon. A Sudbury resident, who will move here in May, is reported as having purchased the present residence and show-room.

POLICE STILL SEEK COUPON SALESMAN

Newmarket — Detective Allen Wallace, Toronto, said this morning that there had been no further developments in the investigation of the man who, early in March, sold bogus photograph coupons to scores of people in Newmarket, Sutton, Aurora and Oakville. An independent investigation by The Era and Express last week helped identify the man, and a general warrant is now out for the arrest of "Allen Carr, alias Ali Sullivan."

Debaters Favor Unity Of Canada With U.S.

Aurora — Betty Jennings and Mary Ussher captured the debating championship of Aurora high school as they represented the affirmative side on the subject: "Resolved that it would be in the best interests of Canada and the United States to unite." The Grade 11 girls argued that economic and defence interests made it imperative to make the North American continent a solid front against any or all aggressors. The two nations were closer together in customs, and individual tastes than any other two nations, and such a move would do more than anything else to improve the possibility of practical English-speaking union, they said. Willson Critchton and James Willis, the Grade 13 representatives, made the contest close. The judges were Mrs. G. W. Williams, Mrs. L. C. Lee, and Miss Genevieve Robinson.

KING RATE SHOWS NEAR 2-MILL JUMP

King—Tax bills are now being distributed in King township. The 1947 levy for county and township purposes is 6.7 mills, representing an increase of almost two mills in the township rate over 1946.

The increased levy is explained by township officials as being due to the unexpectedly heavy snow removal charges, increased road expenditures, and the fact that surplus, now used up, kept down the general rate. The 1947 budget has taken into consideration the fact that in addition to the customary one-mill municipal subsidy, a substantial amount is to be rebated by the DREW government for road construction.

In most school sections, too, there is shown an increase in the school levy due to increased salaries, building programs and general improvement.

LAW OFFICE OPENED BY CHARLES H. KERR

Newmarket—Charles H. Kerr, formerly of Timmins where he had been practicing law since 1935, has opened a law office at the corner of Main and Water Sts. in the Robertson Block in Newmarket. Five years of his Timmins practice was spent with Dean Kester, former Stouffville man.

Experienced in court and office work, Mr. Kerr is a graduate of Osgoode Hall, born in Belleville, he married the former Muriel Murray, Newmarket, and is familiar with Newmarket from frequent visits to his wife's home here. Mr. and Mrs. Kerr are members of the Anglican church.

The market will be held this week on Saturday, April 5, and every Saturday thereafter until further notice.

Post's Rules To Prevail To Test Chivalry of Male

Aurora—The book of etiquette and Miss Emily Post's volumes will be in great demand the week of April 10 around Aurora high school, as the lads and lassies swing into Courtesy Week, sponsored by the Grade 12 home economics group. No more will the fair sex be left behind in the mad scramble to enter and leave classrooms. No more will the boys leave the blackboard covered with figures and the weaker sex to use the eraser. Hats will be raised (when worn), doors will be opened for the girls and closed gently. Sir Walter Raleigh may well have to take a back seat as the boys try out their best party and parlor manners.

"Don't think the girls can't stand improvement too," said one of the school's young Lochinvars. "Perhaps we'll get some acknowledgment now for the courtesies we do extend, in place of having it taken for granted as something due her 'majesty'. Maybe we'll hear our right names for the first time in place of 'Stinky' and 'Joe'."

The matter is being left entirely in the hands of the pupils, with Principal J. H. Knowles and his staff keeping a friendly, watchful eye on the proceedings. Schools where the idea has been tried out, report considerable success. The week's effect of the efforts last throughout the school term generally, even if not in high gear all the time.

Just in case some of our readers are wondering what the word "courtesy" means, here's how Webster's dictionary defines it: "politeness combined

JOHNSTON SHEARD HAS HAND INJURED AT WORK

Johnston W. Sheard, who received hospital treatment a few months ago after a mysterious explosion had occurred just outside the window of his Prospect St. home, was the victim of misfortune again on Tuesday when he injured his hand in the cleaning room of Capital Cleaners where he is employed.

According to Albert Lindenbaum, manager of the plant, Sheard caught his hand in an extractor shortly before noon and received a couple of broken bones. "His hand is badly swollen and he is back on the job today," Mr. Lindenbaum said. "The hand will be put in a cast as soon as the swelling goes down a little."

It looks like a splendid opportunity for parents to try out some homework on the subject at the same time. Certainly it'll be easier to carry it out in the class room if manners rank A plus on the home front.

PICTURE HALL AS SEEN ON COUNCIL PLAN

Newmarket — The ratepayers of Newmarket vote on April 7 on the question: Are you in favor of the acquisition of property and the construction thereon of a municipal auditorium as a war memorial and for the issue of debentures for the payment of the costs to the town thereof?

Plans of the proposed auditorium are on view in the municipal office at the corner of Main and Botsford Sts. The estimated cost of the auditorium is $115,000, of which $57,500 has been guaranteed by the industries of Newmarket.

The proposed site for the building is between Botsford and Park Sts. west of the post office. Entrance to the building will be made from Park Ave. Land has been expropriated in this area for the erection of the building.

Over-all outside dimensions of the proposed building are 109 ft. by 122 ft. It is a two-storey building with a gallery at the south end over-looking the auditorium, and two dressing rooms, one on either side of the stage, at the north end, on the second floor.

The inside dimensions of the auditorium proper are 55 ft. by 104 ft. (approx.). The stage at the north end is the full width of the auditorium and is 18 ft. 6 in. at its greatest depth. The body of the auditorium will seat an estimated 700 people. The floor area is sufficient for two badminton courts.

On the east side of the building, there is a wing which begins 53 ft. from the north end of the building. The north front of this wing contains the main entrance, an office, vestibule, lobby, and check room. Extending along the rear of the building are east to west, a men's washroom, and lounge, a stairway to the auditorium gallery, storage space, a second stairway to the gallery, and in the south-west corner, the boiler room. There is a lobby extending across the south end of the auditorium.

The west side of the building has a wing which extends the length of the building to within 23 ft. of the north front. This wing houses the ladies' lounge and washroom, a dining-room, and a kitchen 31 ft. by 38 ft.

There are two entrances from the kitchen to the auditorium proper, and from the kitchen to the dining-room. It is estimated that the auditorium will seat 400 for dining purposes. The second storey extends only over the auditorium proper, and the wings are one storey.

The plans were drawn up by Margisson and Babcock, Toronto, and can be seen at the town clerk's office.

Vote Final Word From Electors, Vale Says

Newmarket—In an interview with The Era and Express on Monday morning, Mayor Joseph Vale said that vote of April 7 on the question of whether or not the ratepayers were in favor of a municipal auditorium as a war memorial and the payment of its costs by debentures, constituted in his mind the final word from the citizens as to whether or not they want the town council to proceed with the proposal.

"I see no reason for the need of a second vote if this one is favorable," he said. "I understand the vote to mean the taxpayers wish the council to go ahead with this project in accordance with the best interests of the town."

Era-Express Poll Samples Town Opinions on Memorial

Newmarket—In a poll of the heads of the various organizations, members of the town council, and others, the following questions were asked by The Era and Express on Monday: 1. Are you in favor of a municipal auditorium as a war memorial? 2. If so, are you in favor of the proposed site of the building? Do you approve of the present tentative plans for the building?

Dr. L. W. Dales: "Certainly I am in favor of a municipal auditorium and a useful one at that, rendering service to future generations completely and fully, but it must be paid for by all of the people of Newmarket in proportion to their means with careful consideration for the many demands which a growing municipality is going to have forced on it in the near future."

"The desire is general in our town for a permanent recognition of the sacrifice and service of the veterans of two wars, but to impose a heavy debenture upon the property owner is a serious matter and when it will be a blank cheque, as the council confesses it to be, it is time to express an opinion on this procedure. Certainly the property owner wishes to do his part. Then, I say to the council, make a grant for a definite amount, accept the contribution of industry and open a general subscription list and let the total amount be the measure of our feeling in this matter."

"We have a memorial rink. Has any effort been made to increase its services, size and efficiency? An artificial ice plant is a first necessity and council will be forced in another year to finance this because of outside competition. Is not skating and hockey a service to future generations as well as drama and art? Also I have long hoped to see a swimming pool here like in other towns but $15,000-$20,000 was beyond our means, we were told."

"Sewage disposal, better water supply, incinerator, a decent road paralleling our Main St., a municipal building with town offices, magistrate's court, firehall, etc., must all be considered by the council sooner or later. What is the objection to combining some of these facilities under the one roof if the taxpayer is to carry 75 percent of the cost and maintenance of this building for all time?"

"The site should be on as open ground as possible as our traffic congestion will be made worse by crowded parking area, which could be considered. And then there is the maintenance of all this to be considered as well."

"So, Mr. Property-owner, the 300 or 900 of you, I am very interested in what you are going to say. Perhaps it should be referred back to council for further consideration in the light of other needs for Newmarket."

Mayor Joseph Vale answered yes to all three questions.

Reeve Arthur Evans: "I am in favor of the proposed memorial auditorium and of the proposed site, but the plans are hardly definite enough yet to make any comment on them. There is no detail on the blueprint and there is nothing final about it at all. I would like to see the blueprint again before I make any further comment."

Deputy-Reeve J. L. Spillette: "I am absolutely in favor of a municipal auditorium as a war memorial. It is something we have been trying to get and locate here for a long time. The question of location has been holding it up, but I am absolutely in favor of the proposed site. It is centrally located, and two plans have been made for exits. The plans do not include all that we would like to include, but if the building were built to contain all that we would like it to contain, it would cost $300,000-$400,000. There is nothing to keep us from adding to the building. We will have a nucleus and a memorial hall. All the other things can be added in the future."

Councillor Frank Bowser: "I am positively in favor of a municipal auditorium as a war memorial. It is long overdue. The town hall has outlived its usefulness and is a fire trap. I am thankful that the industries in the town have gotten behind the project and have pledged their co-operation and support to it. It was a nice gesture on their part. I am in favor of the proposed site because it is centrally located and will have good parking facilities. In addition it will be near the Widdifield parking lot. I think that the tentative plans are very acceptable."

Councillor H. J. Luck: "I am definitely in favor of a municipal hall as a war memorial. The site could not be improved upon. I do not think that the tentative plans are adequate, but I take it that they are simply a sample or a pattern to give the people an idea of what is planned. They can be enlarged upon or changed in accordance with what we decide to be the requirements."

THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 1947

APRIL 7 VOTE SHOULD FAVOR HALL

There is little choice in the ballot that Newmarket ratepayers must mark on April 7. To vote against a municipal auditorium as a war memorial is to vote against any possibility of having it for the next 20 years. No matter how distasteful the manner in which the vote has been brought to the public, a vote favoring a municipal auditorium as a war memorial and the payment of it from debentures remains the only way in which the rate-payers may express their insistence for a war memorial and an end to the firetrap on Market Square which doubles as our present municipal hall.

The manner in which this project has been brought before the people has indeed been distasteful in that it was sprung upon the public in a manner which has aroused not enthusiasm but indignation. Yet that, too, could have been overcome by a willingness of the council to open the issue to more public scrutiny.

Consider the reticence that has surrounded the actual form of the auditorium building, its probable cost, the arbitrary insistence that while details may be changed, the form of the building will remain as visualized by the council. Consider the manner in which the site was chosen. Expropriation by-laws were passed without any council discussion beyond the statement by the mayor that the site would probably be used for a "memorial" in the near future. The pre-briefing of the council members before the by-laws were presented, the by-passing of regular council procedure by which the matter would be assured open discussion has all been distasteful.

Yet we repeat that only a favorable vote on April 7 will enable Newmarket to take the preliminary step towards the long-needed memorial. Let there be no confusion between the manner in which the memorial hall was brought before the public, and the need for a memorial hall. The time to express disapproval of the former is on election day, not April 7.

Once the Newmarket council has been assured of the direction it seeks, that the town must definitely want a war memorial in the form of a municipal auditorium, there will be time enough for those who claim errors in the form of the building to make their wants known. But before that is done, a vote favoring the project must be registered, and registered in such an overwhelming majority that there can be no doubt that the citizens of Newmarket want a municipal hall as a war memorial, and are willing to pay for it through their taxes.

IRISH SWEEPS FOR CANADA?

A truck driver in Toronto has won a $100,000 prize in the Irish sweepstakes; 40 Canadians have won a total of $195,112. Thousands upon thousands of dollars were spent by Canadians on sweepstake tickets. The "take" for Irish hospitals was $1 1/2 millions, and the government got $520,000. The rest of the $8 1/2 millions was used for prizes, etc.

All this considered, the question of why not a Canadian sweeps naturally comes to mind. It should be favorably received in a province which countenances "occasional" gambling if the proceeds are for a worthy cause, and which collects regularly from the operations of the large racing tracks within its limits.

It should be favorably received, but we doubt if it ever will. From the way our laws are made, it appears Ontarians at least have a tolerance of minor illegalities but a horror of anything as large as an imitation of the Irish sweeps, no matter how the worthy cause would benefit.

We listened to an argument in favor of the gambling, which is organized and operated with such efficiency at service club carnivals, to the effect that the losers were contributing to worthy causes, and the gambling merely added to a bit of pleasure in return. What is sauce for the goose and so on. The same argument might well apply to the sweepstakes.

And if this is not acceptable, argument No. 2 in favor of the service club carnival, and equally in favor of a Canadian sweeps, is that those who are going to gamble, will do it anyway so why not take advantage of the practice and turn the profits towards hospitals and similar causes. It would also help to keep the money in the country.

In the ideal society, such inducements as the thrill of gambling would not be necessary to encourage contributions for worthy causes. The donor would recognize the need and as quickly recognize his responsibility and reach for his check book. But inasmuch as the ideal society is still far away, and there is no abatement of gambling, we might as well enjoy the profits of organized gambling instead of letting it go somewhere else.

"FORGET THE BRITISH"

It has become the practice to loudly reject any suggestions that Great Britain is on the wane. Although inspired by a loyalty and sentiment of a truly welcome quality, such defenses are misleading. The plain fact is that Britain as a power is declining even if her influence on world affairs is far from weak.

Some very good advice was recently handed out by an unidentified Britisher in his country's diplomatic service to the Americans who must, of necessity, assume Britain's role as world leaders. "Forget the British," he said. "Forget they even exist. When will you at last abandon your glibble about pulling British chestnuts out of the fire. Can't you finally understand that (Greece, Turkey, halting the Russian expansion) is your problem."

At one time, it was fashionable to sit back and criticize all that Britain did, a habit not unknown even in Canada. What made it so fashionable was that the critics were never called upon to assume the responsibilities Britain was carrying. But Britain can no longer continue those burdens. Her position was summed up by Lord Halifax in these words: "The British Government... is in the most distasteful position... in which its responsibility is greater than its power."

Now the mantle has been passed to other shoulders. Will they be wide enough to assume them? Canadians have a big stake in the answer. Canadian export trade, so important to the well-being of this country's economy, will depend on how well it is answered. Canada, because of its position between the United States and its nearest rival, Russia, in a line across the north pole, will enjoy peace in the measure by which it is answered.

Canadians must learn to re-assess their position in world affairs in the light of this new adjustment. Our role in the past has been that of the willing and unquestioning supporter of Great Britain in two major wars and countless peace-time crises. In turn, we have been sheltered by the British fleet and British arms. Now, we are without that shelter, and although Canada will never forget its traditional loyalty to the Mother Country, it must revise its political position in the light of the United States' new role. Indications of how this is being effected is evident in the close co-operation between the United States and Canadian armed forces.

We hear that Canadian sovereignty is being violated by a less friendly nation. Canadians must assess the facts and accept the choice that their geographical and economical position places before them. They must learn to assume with their new stature of full nationhood, the responsibilities and problems that comes with it.

FALLACY OF ORGANIZATION

This is the third and final editorial of a series on the address of Mr. Charles H. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America, given in Newmarket March 10. Mr. Millard spoke on "Democracy Needs Organization."

In his insistence that "democracy needs organization," Mr. Millard is identifying himself with the growing body of public opinion which confuses democracy with the means by which it can be achieved. Mr. Millard evidently believes that democracy can be achieved through undemocratic methods, for that is what his touchstone of "organization" means.

Consider how "organization" has been employed already. Mr. Millard's United Steelworkers of America fought a bitter strike against the Steel Co. of Canada in Hamilton using methods beyond the law. Nothing was done because of the large number of men and women involved. In a democracy, the first requisite of a citizen is to respect the laws his representatives have made no matter how distasteful they may be.

Again, Mr. Millard encourages political action by farmers' organizations and unions. These groups can become a potent political force but only through the sacrifice of their rights by individual members of these groups. When votes are bargained for favors, the membership must vote as one without freedom of choice at the polls. Yet the democratic form of government is founded on the free choice of each citizen of those who will represent him in the government.

The democratic form of government—government of all the people, by the people—is still the best form of government man has yet evolved. No one will claim that it has been perfectly observed in Canada but that is not the fault of the form of government, it is the fault of those who administered it.

The organization Mr. Millard seeks, the association for political action of special interests, would supplant government of the people, by government of special interests. That is not democracy, that is dictatorship.

This emphasis on organization, this urge for collective action is but an echo of the thinking which inspired the Russian Revolution. There was an instance in which one class supplanted another as rulers of a nation. It was thought that because it was the working man who supplanted the czar that Russia would be a better place in which to live, a true Kingdom on Earth. History has proved the fallacy of such thinking, but yet it persists in men like Mr. Millard.

Canada has seen the influence of "big business" upon the legislators, as Mr. Millard charges. That influence can be dispelled only by the action of all the people, not by that of special interests. The only way to achieve complete democracy is through an enlightened population.

WHAT OTHERS THINK A WISE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

(From Richmond Hill Liberal)

Richmond Hill's tax rate will remain at 30 mills. The fact that council has been able to maintain the previous rate at a time of rising prices for materials of all varieties is cheering news. It is a recognition by reeve and council of the necessity of tightening, or, at least of not loosening, the municipal purse strings in the interests of all the residents of the village.

Meat and other foods and wearing apparel are increasing in price, but for many there is no appreciable increase in personal income in sight, and any little burden added to those that these folks cannot escape in the economic upheaval represents just so much more hardship for them.

The village, as The Liberal pointed out some weeks ago, is in a thoroughly sound financial position, and residents want for little or nothing that could be reasonably paid for from the municipal purse. Yet, it would be possible to lay out money on many things and justify the expenditures one way or another. Other communities have done so and are doing so. In that way, we could, without so much as batting an eye, boost the tax rate to 40 or 50 mills.

Great credit is due Reeve Neal and his councillors for their level headed consideration of a situation that is difficult and trying. It could probably be that overnight the economic clouds would lift and labor and living cost problems be settled. But it is just as well to wait until they do lift before adding to the cost of community administration any more than may be absolutely necessary.

TO THE EDITOR

The editor: At the annual meeting of the York County Federation of Agriculture last week, the editorial of the March 13 issue of The Newmarket Era and Express re lifting the oleomargarine embargo was brought to the attention of the members by a whole milk shipper and on unanimous motion we are asked to call your attention to a few facts.

In the first place your kind reference in the editorial to the work of the Federation of Agriculture was appreciated but it should be pointed out that the present steps being taken by the cream producers of Ontario to organize under the Farm Products Control Board in the next few weeks will be given impetus by the current pressure to strangle the butter industry by introducing oleomargarine into Canada.

As pointed out by Mr. Ghent in his letter of March 20, 40,000 farmers cannot constitute a monopoly. In fact any farmer with one or more cows is a potential cream producer. With oleomargarine (a synthetic butter) produced at the same price winter and summer it will make a most unfair competition for butter which has been held by price controls to a level where farmers cannot produce cream profitably. Without adequate returns the cream shipper cannot employ help. Here is an illustration in the Newmarket district.

In a block of over five square miles comprising 4,000 acres of average farm land around Pine Orchard, there is today only one hired farm employee and within the past year or so five former cream shippers are now veiling calves.

Big Interests Let it not be forgotten that when oleomargarine is licensed for manufacture and sale in Canada it will be the "Big Interests" you referred to that will make it and at a substantial profit. In fact there is more than suspicion that the pressure is coming from these sources right now. Are these false benefactors interested in making the farmers around Newmarket or any other country town profitable? Apart from the well-being of the rural community, have you overlooked the fact that most prosperous urban communities owe that desirable economic status to a prosperous farming community surrounding it?

It is the opinion of our Federation of Agriculture that only when farm prices provide some assurance of cost of production plus a modest profit, to which any legitimate business is entitled, will the cream producer be able to attract the badly needed labor to step up butter production. Legalize cheap butter substitutes and you will have even less butter for which the returns will be even lower. Bankrupted agriculture will reduce the purchase of all kinds of commodities made or sold by those anxious for oleomargarine.

Mr. Editor, we thank you for your interest in agricultural affairs but we feel you have not taken a broad enough view of this perplexing problem that is at present haunting the cream producer.

W. J. Buchanan, Secretary, York County Federation of Agriculture, Downsview, March 26.

Editors note: On March 27, the senate defeated a bill which would have ended the ban on the production, sale and importation of oleomargarine in Canada by a vote of 38-22.

Around Town

About the men and women you meet around town almost every day.

Henry Walter "Harry" Tomes, 72, came to the village of Holland Landing 25 years ago, and he has spent most of his time since then doing his utmost in the service of the community as school trustee (five years), councillor (five years, the last year as the last reeve of the village before it became a police village), and police trustee (for five years after Holland Landing became a police village). He is president of the extremely active Community Association, of which he was secretary when it was formed three years ago. The villagers recognized his efforts in their behalf, and in turn are doing their utmost to complete their new Community Hall in time for a celebration there on Dec. 26 of Harry's Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Harry was born in Rochdale, Lancashire—"where Gracie Fields was born." "The great cotton mills are there, and all the girls wear clogs," he says. When he was two years old his mother died and he went to live with his grandmother. He was a cripple for the first five years of his life, and he gives his grandmother all the credit for eventually curing him.

His formal education ended at the age of 11, when he went to work as an apprentice bricklayer. "Apprentices then led a hard life," he says, "but when I was 15 the Apprentice Act was passed and conditions were better. Before that apprentices were bound to their employers for the terms of their apprenticeships. They were very badly treated and miserably paid as a rule, but if an apprentice violated his contract he could be sent to prison."

Harry became an ardent trade unionist and socialist while still a youth and says that he would support a labor government in Canada. "Socialism came into existence when I was about 20 and a member of a Mutual Improvement class at the church. We used to debate on many topics and then ask someone who was an expert on the topic to come and speak to us on the subject. Snowden and MacDonald were among those who spoke to us."

Harry began the Boys' Life Brigade, a predecessor to the Boy Scout movement. "I was severely criticized for trying to make something of some of the worst boys in town, but I never had any trouble with the boys themselves. Most of them turned out to be fine citizens. There were about 200 of them in Northampton before the Scout movement came along," he says. Harry has been a strong believer in supervised boys' clubs ever since.

"I believe in equal opportunities for all boys regardless of their financial conditions," he says. "I would have liked to have been a doctor if I had the opportunity. I have always been extremely interested in physiology, anatomy, and first aid. I used to teach first aid to the boys in the brigade." He joined the St. John's Ambulance Corps when he was 16, and still holds the bronze medal. He was a stretcher-bearer sergeant and had joined the International Union No. 2 in Toronto before going overseas. When I came to Holland Landing, I started contracting again (I had done some in England). I worked on Pickering College when the gymnasium and dormitories were built on the Newmarket high school when it was rebuilt after the fire, on the bank of Montreal when it was built, and on the last addition to the Office Specialty. I supervised the work on the tannery here and will continue to do so. The only contract I ever lost money on in my life was when I lost $15, but when my son in Hamilton asked me for some advice recently, I told him to keep on building on a cost plus basis. There is no risk involved that way. "Harry has another son and a daughter in Toronto."

Harry was also caretaker on the Newmarket Canal when it was built. "I should have been retired from that job when I was 65, but about that time war came along and I kept at it for another five years. Then when I was 70, they sent a new engineer out and he asked me to stay until he got acquainted with the job and so on. The result was that I retired last October. "Harry's opinion of the canal project, begun more than 30 years ago, is summed up in the concluding paragraph of an article he wrote recently for The Era and Express.

"So passes into oblivion a project that seems to have served but two purposes; to save the town of Newmarket the cost of a sewage disposal plant by the dumping of its sewage into the canal at the north end of the town, and to provide pasturage for neighboring farmers."

50 YEARS AGO

From The Era and Express files, April 2, 1897

Mayor and Mrs. Cane were "at home" with a number of friends on Wednesday evening.

Mr. W. F. Pegg, foreman in the Toronto World office, was in town on Wednesday. He spent some time looking at the changes in The Era office where he had put in 15 years.

On Saturday, while Rev. Mr. Thompson was chopping a stick of wood, a piece flew up, cutting a vein in his nose. It was several hours before the bleeding was stopped.

An excursion party on the Ottawa and Parry Sound railway company travelled from Parry Sound to Ottawa, a distance of 520 miles, for $3.

Stage drivers between Queensville and Keswick had to double the trip on account of bad road conditions. On meeting, they exchanged parcels but forgot the mail bags.

The flood on the Humber this year was the highest for 14 years.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Cooper, Collingwood, were the guests of Mr. I. M. Hoag for a few days last week.

Mrs. Bertha Landy, who for six years was assistant postmistress in Newmarket, left today for Winnipeg. She will stay until the fall of the year.

A number of Udon people attended the wedding of Mr. W. H. Umphrey to Miss Minnie Strachan, Uxbridge, last week.

On Tuesday in Aurora, Mr. Paul Lepper, auctioneer and constable, passed away.

Mrs. Howard Willoughby, Keswick, is visiting here this week. Rev. Dewey, Mount Albert, exchanged services with Rev. Towell, Sutton, on Sunday.

Sup is running this week in earnest. Many are compelled to boil at nights in order that none is wasted.

A man in Collingwood drank a pint of yeast instead of butter-milk. He arose three hours earlier next morning.

THE COMMON ROUND

By ISABEL INGLIS COLVILLE

GOOD FRIDAY

There are days of joy, of thanksgiving, triumph and tragedy, which stand out as landmarks in history. Of these, Good Friday is the supreme example.

The events of that day did not take place in Rome, or Egypt or Athens, or in any of the other great world centres of that time, but in a tiny country which was then, as now, a trouble spot for those who had to deal with its religious and political problems.

Great thinkers and philosophers have often been condemned to death for no other reason than that they were ahead of their times, but until Christ no man had laid down his life for love of his fellowmen.

Great men, like Lincoln who have left us a heritage of ideals of freedom in its most lofty form, have perished by the assassin's hand, and their ideals live on; but these very ideals would never have had their being if Jesus Christ had not perished on Calvary on that Good Friday nearly 2,000 years ago.

If They But Loved Henry Drummond, in our modern days, has said that "Love is the greatest thing in the world," and he is but echoing St. Paul, who said, "without love we are as sounding brass and tinkling cymbals." And those stemmed from Christ's saying that men would become His disciples if they loved one another.

That Friday in Jerusalem, when a great colorful eastern assembly of Jews had gathered to celebrate the Passover, stands out in history and our hearts, not because of the Passover, but because on a hill outside the gates of Jerusalem, a hill dedicated to its criminals, the Son of God hung on a cross, sinless, yet bearing our sins, hated by the powerful of his own country; yet, in the midst of His suffering asking forgiveness for them, and thinking of His mother so bereft.

The hot eastern sun poured down on the jeering, easily moved crowd, a crowd which had earlier resisted Pilate's efforts to save Christ by saying, "Crucify Him," and "His blood be on us and on our children!" One can imagine the change

Newton in The Atlantic Monthly wrote: "The best book of verses for children ever written," should be a part of every child's library. It is a book which can be enjoyed not only by wee ones for whom it is read, the young fry who read for themselves, but the parents. The irresistible rhythms, the humor, the understanding of the child's point of view place this book among the front ranks of verses for and about children.

"Puppy and I," "Vespers" and "The King's Breakfast" go straight to the heart. (The books mentioned above are at Newmarket Public Library.)

ARRIVES ON QUEEN Gormley—Mr. J. T. Gorton arrived from England on the Queen Elizabeth on March 22. Mr. Gorton will make his home with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jones, Gormley. Mrs. Jones has not seen her father for 20 years.

1909 Edition Era Still Used As Wall Insulation

Newmarket — During renovations by Russell Curtis on his house on Davis Dr., Newmarket, an old copy of Newmarket Era was unearthed, dated Jan. 1, 1909, from the walls where it had been used as insulation.

A few items of neighborly interest picked out of the issue are:

"In Newmarket the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute will be held on Saturday, Jan. 2, 1909, at the home of Mrs. Wilmet Lemon, Eagle St., Newmarket."

"The annual home gathering of the family of Elder D. Prosser was held at his residence, Pearson Ave., on Christmas Day."

"The contest of Jar of Beans and Toothpicks, at Mr. Hatch's Green House, closed on Christmas Eve. A. S. Williams won the first prize, and W. B. Bosworth, second prize."

"Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Jackson are still away in Montreal. The readers of the Era will have to excuse errors and omissions that might appear, as his substitutes are doing their best."

"Mr. Livingston, traffic manager of the Toronto and York Railway, announced that the extension from Jackson's Point to Sutton, on the Metropolitan Division, has been officially opened."

"In Mount Albert, Mrs. Theaker gave the annual Christmas dinner on Friday."

"Dr. and Mrs. Forrest spent Christmas holidays at Port Hope."

"Mr. Henry Lepard, Queensville, sold his house and lot to Mrs. Frank Doan, and has gone to Keswick to reside with his son, Mr. Harry Lepard."

"In absence of the editor, and on behalf of the staff, we extend hearty New Year greetings, hoping to make the Era, on the year we are now entering, the very best of all its history of more than half a century."

The North York GARDENER

By JOHN DALY
Vice President, Newmarket
Horticultural Society

(This is the first of a series of regular columns on gardening by Mr. Dalby, vice-president of the Newmarket Horticultural Society, and an experienced gardener.)

The growing of flowers and vegetables is not difficult but some knowledge of the requirements of plant life in general and of the various individual types in particular is required.

In undertaking to write this column I do so with the idea of conveying to the flower lovers of the communities served by The Newmarket Era and Express, some practical information that will assist them in their efforts to beautify their home surroundings.

Trying to grow sun-loving flowers in the shade is disastrous and in future columns suggestions regarding plants and proper growing conditions will be given to aid the amateur gardener.

A lover of flowers is always welcome in the gardens of fellow growers. Visit their gardens and learn from experienced people the particulars regarding the flowers you wish to grow.

A second suggestion is that you join your local Horticultural Society. Regular attendance at the meetings brings you in contact with more experienced members and the information received is invaluable.

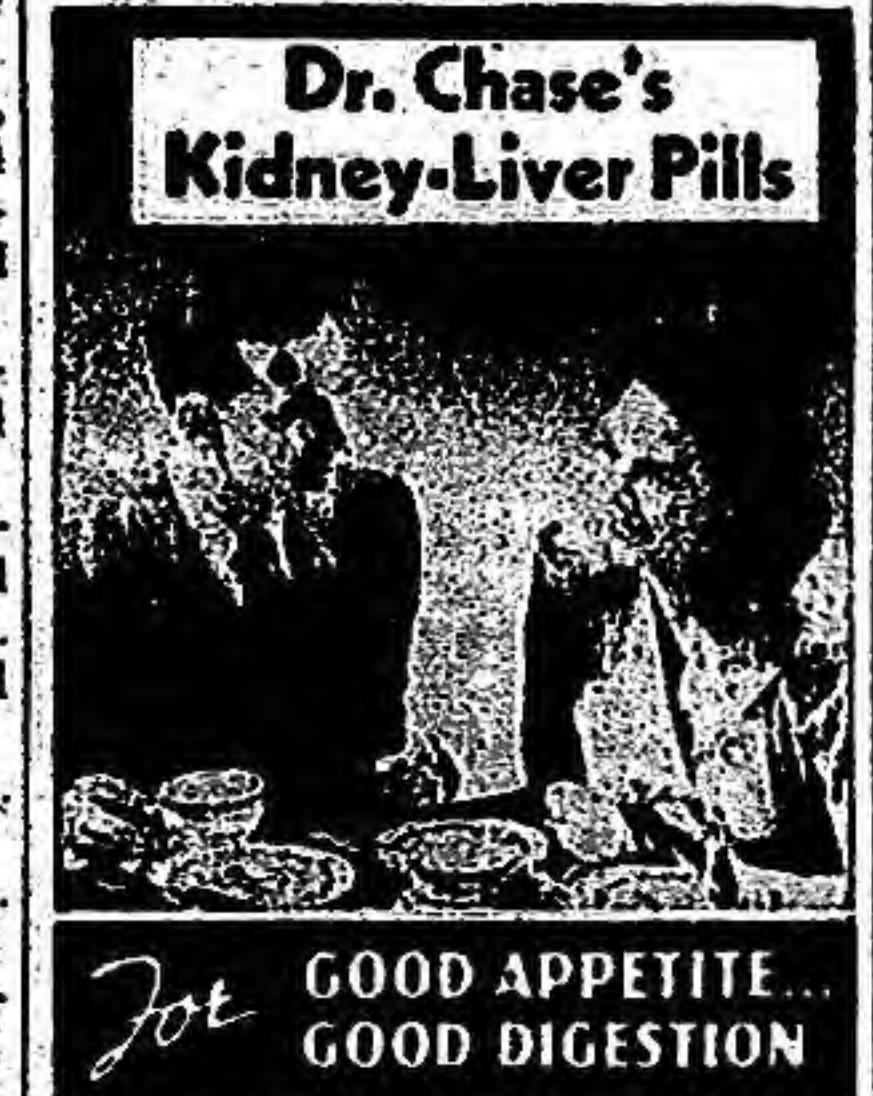

However, don't take all the discards offered you from your neighbor's garden. Usually these plants are very poor specimens.

Recently flowers have been so vastly improved and their disease resistance so increased that they bear no comparison to their old forms.

In future columns we shall omit the generalities dealt with today and discuss such phases of gardening as the preparation of the soil, proper cultivation, control of insects and disease, and many other topics.

Ten Years In Uniform, Now Works On Farm Here

Last fall the dominion government brought to Canada over 2,000 veterans of General Anders' Polish army in Italy, men who had no wish to return to their homeland, as farm laborers. How has the experiment worked out? If the experience of one farmer and his Polish helper is any criterion, the experiment has been completely successful.

This week, The Era and Express representative spent the day on a district farm where one of the Polish veterans has been employed since his arrival here. From what he saw and from what the farmer and the Pole told him, in this instance there was complete satisfaction on both sides.

The Pole, whose Christian name is Stanley, and who asked that his surname not be mentioned nor his present address for fear of reprisals on relatives in Poland, is 31 years old. Born in the eastern part of Poland, his home was twice over-run by the Russians, once following the first world war and the second time during the invasion of Poland by the Russians when the Poles were fighting the Nazis.

Of his 31 years, ten have been spent in uniform. Enlisting with the Polish army before the second world war, he was interned by the Russians and spent 20 months in an internment camp, later enlisting in General Anders' army and seeing action in Italy with the Eighth Army.

Slight in appearance, he has a wiry strength that is apparently tireless. He is unmarried and has no near relatives. A relative in Poland to whom he wrote disappeared two weeks before Christmas. He is learning English rapidly and his farmer-employer and himself have worked out a combination Anglo-Polish dialect which is serving adequately until Stanley masters English.

Clean, courteous and a master of carpentry and painting, he has been quick to adapt himself to Canadian ways. He does as instructed, feeds the cattle, operates the milking machine and all farm machinery. Accustomed to small farms where every inch of soil was utilized, he is still surprised at the largeness of Canada, the evidence of waste such as one sees on the wide road margins. In Poland, he says, that land would be all under cultivation.

He has benefited the farmer for whom he works in a 100 small ways. "The other day, the buzz-saw frame fell apart," says the farmer. "A new one would cost $50 at least. Stanley built a new one at the cost of a few cents and furthermore, he has made it as good as a new one."

"Stanley broke a fork handle the other day and was pretty upset. He insisted that I take it out of his pay. Shucks, in the repair jobs he has done for me, he has saved me the price of 100 fork handles."

Stanley stays close to the farm but since he has begun to improve his English, he has attended one or two picture shows in Newmarket and goes to Toronto on the odd Sunday.

Stanley is under a year contract with his present employer and is paid the going wage. He must work on a farm for a second year and then he is free to enter some other kind of employment. His employer is sure Stanley can earn himself a good living as a carpenter or painter. As for Stanley, he says that he has no plans. "All I see of Canada so far is Jersey cows and bush. Wait until see more than decide," he says.

As for his employer, he remembers bitterly of offering five and six dollars a day to men, out of work at the time, to help him with his haying and being told to jump in the lake. "Stanley has been the saving of my farm," he says.

PYRAMID FIND RECALLS STORY OF SHANGRI-LA

By GOLDEN GLOW

A few minutes ago, I was listening to a newscast over the radio when I heard one which attracted my attention. A pyramid, higher and larger than the famous Egyptian pyramids (one of the wonders of the world), has been spotted in the heart of China, amid inaccessible mountains, and known only to the immediate inhabitants.

At once my thoughts flew to that delightful book called The Lost Horizon by James Hilton. If I recall, I mentioned it in connection with an article about Shangri-la, when I was reminded of the book by Admiral Byrd sighting an "oasis." Admiral Byrd spotted it from the air, and is likely planning to go and investigate it in a later expedition. Well, here is another mystery which has been seen from the air, and what will this new "Shangri-la" disclose?

The Egyptian pyramids have been a source of speculation through the ages, and a source of religious fervor as well. We are never done wondering especially about the Sphinx near Cairo, the capital of Egypt. Why does a mystery always intrigue us? How we marvel and puzzle our brains about those old Egyptian pyramids—and finally we "give up", as countless thousands have done before us, and concede it as the "World's Greatest Mystery."

Take the Sphinx, that fabulous stone creature with the head of a woman and the body of a lion. It has been there for centuries, sinking deeper and deeper into the sand of the desert. Then scientists began to speculate. Finally they found, between the paws of the Sphinx, an altar, and behind the altar, an entrance-way into a long subterranean passage leading to the Great Pyramid. Science has gone on and on, excavating, exploring, comparing! Archaeologists have devoted their lives to solving its mystery—but still it remains the world's most perplexing question! Why were the pyramids built? What was the altar before the paws of the Sphinx? And so on and on.

I did not catch all the broadcaster said, but there was something about the "lost continent of Atlantis." Mystery and more mystery! The Lost Continent of Atlantis is supposed to be a continent still to be seen under the waters of the ocean, with cities of buildings far superior to anything of our modern times. These cities are supposed to have vanished in the days of Noah during the flood, and still clearly seen through the blue depths of the sea. Were the pyramids supposed to have been built by a remnant of that vast race who lived before the flood, when civilization was supposed to have been at its peak?

We may still find out some day. For most certainly the builders of the pyramids were a highly advanced race with wonderful scientific knowledge. Again we are also puzzled by the Aztec pyramids of Yucatan in Mexico, supposed to have been built by the ancient Aztec race, but which are similar in construction to the Egyptian.

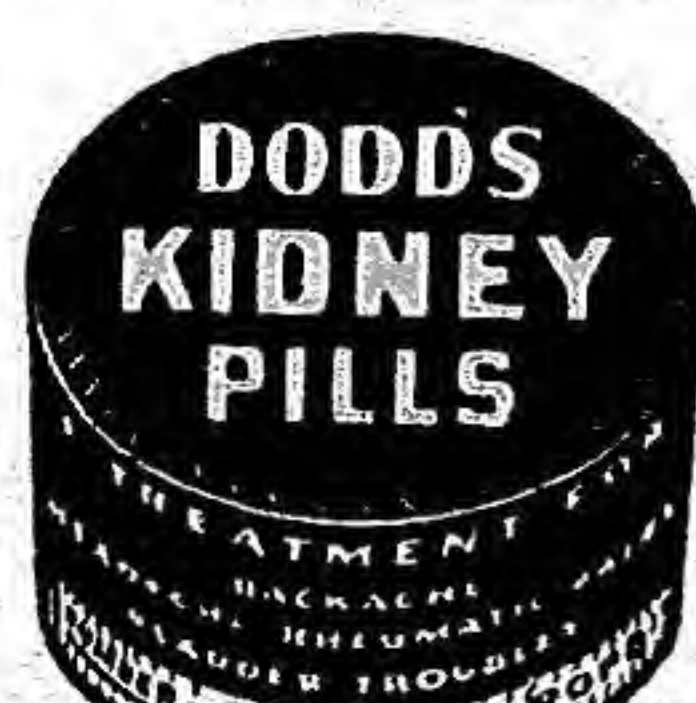

What will this new find in the heart of China reveal? Will this new pyramid be another "Shangri-la"?

The Handy Jingle

Pat, who had but lately arrived from the old country, was experiencing considerable difficulty mastering correct English. His cousin, who had spent several years in America and had gained a good working knowledge of grammar, attempted to instruct him.

"Now, Pat," he said, "don't say, 'It is me.' Say 'I is I,' and remember that by saying to yourself 'It is I' said the spider to the fly."

A few days later Pat came to his instructor and said, "Sure, O'm getting along fine. Ol just remember that 'It is me,' said the spider to the fly and Ol get it right every time."

Youth For Christ Seek To Meet Modern Needs

Newmarket—The Ministerial Association of Newmarket, feeling that a specific need could be met in providing a suitable entertainment for the Christian young people on Saturday night, arranged the formation of The Youth for Christ Rally on Saturday nights.

Although an intangible bond exists between the Newmarket rallies and others, each Youth for Christ group follows its own routine. The theme, "Geared to the Times and Anchored to the Rock," explains the aim of the rally which attempts to accent the practicability of Christianity in the present world and through informal gatherings to provide a high standard of entertainment value not only to the youth and young adults, but also to everyone interested in Newmarket and the surrounding districts.

The Youth for Christ in Newmarket is operated by the Young People's Council. Each Young People's Society was invited to send representatives and there is a fairly complete representation. Transportation difficulties have prevented the attendance of many out-of-town groups so that several offices in the council are being kept in reserve for these future members.

The following officers were appointed for the coming year: director, Albert Baile; assistant director and song leader, Roy Langford; treasurer, Harry McGhee; sec., Elsie Mathewson; assistant secretary, Violet Curtis; program convenor, Ron. Beckett.

The rally was originally held in the Newmarket town hall, but is now being held in the auditoriums of the participating churches.

The Legal Way

A lawyer thus illustrates the language of the craft: "If a man were to give another an orange, he would simply say: 'Have an orange.' But when the transaction is entrusted to a lawyer to be put in writing he adopts this form: 'I hereby give and convey to you, all and singular, my estate and interests, right, title, claim and advantages of and in said orange, together with all its rind, juice, pulp and pips and all rights and advantages therein with full power to bite, suck, and otherwise to eat the same or give the same away with or without the rind, skin, juice, pulp and pips, anything hereinbefore or hereinafter.'

Young Hopefuls

By DOROTHY MUIR BOWMAN
Start 'Em Early
Rita is 15 and a very restless young lady. She wants action and people around her all the time. Rita's mother wishes Rita would take an interest in books and learn to enjoy some quiet reading part of the time.

Suddenly trying to interest a lively girl of 15 in reading for pleasure isn't an easy task. Unless she has cultivated the habit previously, she isn't apt to have any desire to take time from her present exciting and active existence to settle down to reading.
Children should be read to when they are mere babies. Long before words have meanings, babies listen and are pleased and comforted when they hear speech sounds. Mother Goose rhymes have special fascination for wee tots because of their simple sounds. Repetition of them is very interesting to them. Eventually, they recognize the sounds and then they love them because they are familiar.

Wee tots of two and three years of age enjoy simple stories as well as rhymes and jingles. Stories about little happenings in their own daily living programs and stories about other little boys and girls are most appropriate at this time. Besides, such stories can be used effectively to influence the child's behavior, helping him to be like the good child in the story. Stories must be told over and over again, using the same words and same emphasis, if they are to impress the young mind.
By the time the child is four or five, he is ready for imaginative stories. He is old enough to distinguish between real and make-believe situations; whereas, a younger child would be too confused to gain from imaginative stories. The stories may be about animals who talk and people who can do super-human things. These stories help the child to exercise his own imagination.

Boys and girls of eight and nine years don't enjoy the same type of reading. The girls usually continue to like both realistic fiction and fairy stories, while the boys are partial to stories of adventure, stories of heroes and scientific fiction.
All adolescents who have had a previous reading background, will enjoy biographies or autobiographies of persons who have risen to fame and fortune—after surmounting great difficulties. This type of reading inspires young people to reach their own life's objectives.

It may take considerable strategy to interest Rita in books at this period in her life, but it is most assuredly worth every effort. Her pleasure from books will have to compete with the almost hysterical delight she derives from lengthy chit-chats over the phone with her girl friends.
It would probably be appropriate to introduce Rita to books with stories of girls her own age or slightly older. Rita's mother should be acquainted with several, which include characters of Rita's frivolous type girls who do and say the silliest things, but who eventually turn out to be admirable characters. Reading interests should be stimulated in the crib and satisfied progressively.

Children Needn't Suffer Speech Defects, W.I. Told

Aurora—"A survey of any community will reveal a surprising number of children handicapped because of speech," Mrs. Dorothy M. Bowman, Newmarket, said in an address delivered to the Aurora branch of the Women's Institute on Thursday. "Some children stutter, some lisp, some have simple sound substitutions and others have their own individual language that their parents understand but their teachers find most trying. Although the simpler defects may be overcome or outgrown in time with little or no assistance, the child's future usually suffers through the development of an inferiority complex. The most difficult cases, which at one time were considered hopeless, include children afflicted with cleft-palates or hare-lips or those who are deaf, mute or spastic.

speech defect results from low intelligence. "Actually there are many causes of speech defects," she said.

"There is nothing more important to a child's mental, physical and emotional stability than good speech," she continued. "A speech handicapped child is the subject of ridicule for other children. He normally assumes an inferiority complex which impedes all learning and results in mental retardation and emotional instability. It is not fair to the child to let him enter school with a defect that might have been corrected previously. His own little life is disrupted, as well as the lives of his teacher and classmates."

She said that early speech training was of the utmost importance if normal development was expected from children with delayed or defective speech. "Long before children are ready for school, they should speak distinctly," Mrs. Bowman continued. "Eighty percent of the pre-school children with speech defects can be taught to speak correctly. It is the duty of the speech therapist to diagnose and correct the speech defect and the duty of the parent to continue practice with the child until his bad speech habits are overcome."

Speaker Tells History Of Handicrafts To W.A.

The Women's Association of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held a well-attended open meeting on March 24. Mrs. Lurine Ballantyne, Toronto, was the guest speaker, and the story of handicrafts was the subject of her address.

Mrs. Ballantyne told of the history and background of handicraft and said that people today lack the originality necessary for this form of creative art. "I am repeatedly confronted with the general backwardness of Ontario in this field, for Ontario has produced no handicraft which is specifically representative of this district," she said.

While attending an exhibit of handicrafts in England, Mrs. Ballantyne said that the display from Quebec was outstanding. In the rug making and weaving, some aspect peculiar to life in Quebec was worked into the exhibit.

Mrs. Ballantyne spoke of cooking as a handicraft. She said that she hoped that Newmarket might bring out some original dish, as had Boston with its baked beans and Virginia with its hams.

Miss Violet Curtis played two solos, "Beautiful Dreamer," and "Onward Christian Soldiers" on her piano accordion, and later accompanied for a group singing.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT
HELD IN BALDWIN
THEFT, SAYS GUILTY

Newmarket — Maurice John Latour pleaded guilty to two charges of breaking and entering, to theft of an automobile and of several other small items in magistrate's court here on Friday morning. Magistrate J. E. Pritchard, K.C., presided. Detective W. E. Martindale of the York county police said that Latour had been brought to Toronto headquarters after having been apprehended near Baldwin, and that he had admitted breaking into and entering Owens' Barber shop at Baldwin, accompanied by two companions. "He said that they heard someone coming and left. Latour was apprehended later by Constable Carl Morton," Mr. Martindale said. The value of the items that had been stolen from the barber shop was small, and had not been identified by the owner, he said.

Bert Owens, proprietor of the barber shop, identified a lodge pin, a watch chain, and a coin as articles that had been taken from the till. He said that the front door of the shop had apparently been opened with a key. "The doors and windows were all locked when I left at midnight," he said. "I didn't know anything about the break-in until the next morning when Constable W. R. Hill came and told me about it."

Mrs. Audrey Chapelle identified several other articles that had been in the till at the barber shop.

Detective F. Cater, Toronto city police, charged that Latour had broken into and entered the offices of the Deluxe Transport Co., Toronto, and had stolen a carton of tobacco, a carton containing 60 pairs of cheap shoes, and a 1947 car without license plate.

"The car was later picked up by Constable Morton at Baldwin," he said. "Latour admitted the break-in and the theft of the car, but he refused to identify those who had been with him. He denied stealing the shoes and the tobacco."

Has Record
According to the R.C.M.P. report, Latour has a record of 12 convictions, dating back to July, 1943. He was discharged from Kingston penitentiary on Dec. 3, 1946.

Prior to sentence, Latour said that when he was released from the penitentiary he had had no place to go and had received little help from the Prisoners' Rehabilitation Board and the Salvation Army. "I couldn't get employment until I found some place to live, and I couldn't find a place to live until I got some money. When I saw the chance to make some quick money I took it."

He said that he had been honorably discharged from the army after two years and eight months' service. Crown Attorney Arleigh Armstrong asked that Latour be remanded in custody for one week before sentence was pronounced. Latour was remanded until this morning when he appeared in Toronto court.

William Ratcliff, Newmarket, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $25 and costs or 15 days. Constable W. R. Hill, Jr., testified that he had investigated an accident and found that a truck driven by the accused had struck a parked vehicle. He said that at the time of the accident the accused had claimed that he had been momentarily blinded by the lights of an approaching car. He said that accused had had a couple of beers, but appeared normal.

Ratcliff testified that the officer's testimony had been correct. He said that the road was "plenty wide" and that he could have passed the parked vehicle easily had he not been momentarily blinded. He admitted that he had to have a special permit to drive because of the fact that he had lost the use of one eye. "I drive about 50 miles a day," he said.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Pritchard said that he was more influenced by the fact that accused had been driving on a special permit after drinking than he was by Ratcliff's story of the oncoming car that had failed to dim its lights. Check License Story
Magistrate Pritchard authorized Provincial Constable Wm. A. Melbourne to make a special trip to Toronto to investigate the defence of Mrs. Leroy E. Woolley, charged with parking on the travelled portion of No. 11 highway. In a letter to A. M. Mills, court clerk, Mrs. Woolley said that she had had her 1947 license plate installed on February 24, while the parking summons that she had received and dated in March contained the number of her 1946 plate. She wrote that she "feared that someone was using her old plate."

"There have been so many people who have put up the same defence that I feel that we should make a complete investigation into the matter to discover the truth," Magistrate Pritchard said. "In this case we are only dealing with a parking charge, but there may come a time when we have to deal with a charge of a much more serious nature and where a similar defence is put forward. In this particular case the defence is specific in every detail, and should not be quite as difficult to investigate as some other cases."

PERRY WINCH, JR. IS ELECTED PRESIDENT

March 27 — Virginia Junior Farmers met in the Virginia school house on Monday, March 17, for the monthly meeting. Yvonne Corner and Charles Weir were appointed as delegates to go to Guelph in April. Election of officers followed, with W. M. Cockburn, agricultural representative, acting as chairman, Archie McKenzie, assistant agricultural representative, acting as scrutineer, and Miss Eileen Giles as secretary. Officers are: pres., Perry Winch, Jr.; vice-pres., Mrs. Charles Weir; sec.-treas., Mrs. Perry Winch; third director, Mrs. Charles Weir; executive committee, Charles Weir, Eric Cronsberry, and Donald Winch. Contests under Floyd Brake and Donald Winch were won by both teams. Lunch was served by Mrs. Charles Weir, Eileen Giles, Helen Corner and Mary Weir.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weir motored to Stouffville on Sunday. Mrs. Albert Weir and daughter, Mary, went to Toronto on Saturday to visit Mr. Art Allen, Mrs. Weir's brother, who is in Toronto General hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom McRae and Mr. and Mrs. John Laviolette attended the card party held in Sutton on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Winch, Jr., and Mrs. Charles Weir motored to Newmarket on Thursday, March 20, to the annual board meeting.

The April meeting of Pefferlaw W.I. will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Cronsberry on April 1. Election of officers will take place with Mrs. Dennis Woodrow as convenor.

KESWICK

Judge and Mrs. Brock Curry, Manitoulin Island, who have been in Toronto for the winter, were guests on Tuesday of last week of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leppard. They were returning last week to Manitoulin.

Mrs. Wm. Davison left for Toronto on Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Felton, and will stay for awhile at the Felton home.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Winch have been making extensive improvements in their home purchased from Mr. Jack Winch (the former Christian church parsonage), and expect to take possession April 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Winch with Mrs. Winch, Sr., and Alma will move to Mr. Winch's recently purchased farm, formerly the property of Mrs. Jack Linstead, on the highway between Keswick and Queensville.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kellington have been remodeling their grocery store into an up-to-date "self service" store which will soon be completed and ready for business.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. George Snelling on the birth of their second son. Mr. Snelling has purchased the building where he is in business from Mr. C. Boyd, Newmarket. The store was formerly owned by Mr. R. Switzer.

No mail on Wednesday of last week because of blocked roads and another real blizzard on Saturday night. However, the week has started more spring-like so let us hope spring is near.

Rev. Albert E. Millen, Queensville, will be guest preacher at a Holy Thursday service tonight, April 3, in the United church. Service is at 8 o'clock and the general public is invited.

Mr. Jas. Cole is at home and is improving in health. Mr. Isaac Waldon has been visiting his daughters in Toronto.

The battle of the snows has continued on the North Gwillimbury front, as on many other fronts. The sudden storm of March 25 marooned Toronto people in Keswick and marooned Keswick people in Toronto, Newmarket and elsewhere. The end of last week saw most roads passable (more or less). Then came the storm of Saturday night, the high wind very effective.

tively replacing in the roads the snow which the ploughs had removed, plus a new lot.

This village has been fortunate, however, in that the county plough, the township plough and Art Pollock's sturdy little plough have all helped to keep open communications.

Keswick Young People's Union and a few older friends had an evening of fun, which occasionally touched the hilarious, when they held a box social in the public school. Mr. Thos. Niles proved a great success as auctioneer, the proceeds from sale of boxes amounting to $25. The mystery radio play, The Man with the Purple Handgall, got rounds of applause, as did the impromptu play, The Gathering of the Nuts.

Doreen Niles contributed a reading, June Prosser a piano solo and the young people, as a group, some choruses. Phyllis Rye was at the piano. Bob Atchison, president, presided.

On his way back from six months of graduate studies at the University of Minnesota, J. Ritchie Cowan was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George White. He goes now to McGill University, Montreal, where he has been named to the faculty of agriculture. Actually, Ritchie will be at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, outside the city, where the faculty of agriculture is located.

The United church Woman's Missionary Society held a day of quilting in the school room on April 1. This was under the direction of the supply committee of which Mrs. Jas. Cole is convenor.

The regular W.M.S. meeting will be held in the school room at 2:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 10. Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Marritt, Toronto, were visiting friends and relatives on Saturday.

Quite a lot of people are held up in moving owing to the road conditions of the past few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Winch, who have lived all their married lives on the fourth, are moving into the village, and we hope they will enjoy life there.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Draper entertained a few friends on Friday night, celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary on March 13.

The whole community joins in wishing them long years of health and happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Draper had their 25th wedding anniversary on March 4. They, too, had very bad roads and weather and their friends were unable to call on them, so we do extend to them our best wishes.

Mr. Ross Foulkeard, who has not been well this winter, is under the doctor's care. We wish him a speedy recovery.

On March 21 Mrs. Frank Eastman saw a robin. Let us hope the robin will bring his relatives as we all long for signs of spring.

Mr. Gable, the school bus driver, who walked to Keswick night and morning in all kinds of weather to get at his post, deserves great credit. Many times this winter he has started out to walk when the roads were impassable, and it was not fit to go out.

Mr. Joe Wilkinson had a birthday this week. Congratulations, Joe.

ERA AND EXPRESS POLL

However, the idea of a memorial shouldn't be used as a means of getting new "town" buildings. If we want a new town building, we can put a memorial in it, but the memorial should not be an excuse for a new town building.

Councillor Mrs. Caroline Edwards: I approve of a memorial auditorium as a war memorial but I do not especially approve of the site. I think that a better one could be found. I suggested some time ago that a town planning commission be set up to operate for at least five years to study the town, and that an expert be called in to aid it. The town should be studied and the auditorium built and then fitting other buildings around it. We do need other buildings, such as a new public library, a new fire hall and police hall, and a place for the various recreation groups to meet. I do not approve of the tentative plans for the building. I do not think that they have been gone into and studied carefully enough. They should be thoroughly studied and compared with other plans of buildings similar in nature.

Councillor Tom Bittrell: I am absolutely in favor of a municipal auditorium as a war memorial. If the voters miss this opportunity to provide for such a building they probably will not get the chance again. The auditorium is something that is very badly needed, and it will serve quite a few purposes. Every individual in the town of Newmarket will have as much interest in the auditorium as the factories and businesses will have. I approve of the proposed site because it is centrally located, and at the same time is out of the way of business.

The tentative plans look very good, but there may be a considerable amount of discussion about them later. I can't see that anything can be added without a lot of additional expense. Some things may be added if they are found desirable. An endless number of things could be incorporated into a building of that kind, but the council must do what it thinks is best and most reasonable for everyone.

Councillor Bert Morrison: I am in favor of the municipal auditorium as a war memorial, and I am in favor of the proposed site. I do not approve of the tentative plans in their entirety, because I feel that the ratepayers should have more say on what the building should include.

Councillor George Byers: "I am in favor of a municipal auditorium and war memorial but for personal reasons I would prefer not to answer the second question (Are you in favor of the proposed site?). The original plans seem quite suitable for a memorial auditorium as a memorial."

Dr. J. Gordon Cook, chairman of the Newmarket board of health: "I am in favor of a municipal auditorium as a war memorial and of the proposed site. With regard to the plans that have been tentatively drawn up, my opinion is that what they have planned is fine if they cannot afford anything more elaborate. I do feel that the auditorium should be a little bigger, because if they equip it for use as a basketball or badminton floor, there will be no room for spectators unless it is bigger. I don't think that there is enough money for some of the other things that it would be nice to have, so they will have to be left out."

Bernard McHale, chairman of the separate school board: "I am in favor of a municipal auditorium as a war memorial because at the present time there is no place for a public gathering, a public banquet or even a public dance. However, it seems to me that it would help considerably if those that were sponsoring the idea would make available to the general public more information as to what the building is to contain and the approximate cost. I think that people would feel better if they had more information."

Mrs. W. R. Stephens, chairman of the Newmarket branch of the Canadian Red Cross: "I am in favor of a municipal auditorium as a war memorial if it would include the public library and certain other rooms but the most important thing is that it must contain the public library. It is more important for our children than most people realize. It should also contain a room with facilities for the Red Cross and rooms for all the recreation groups that are fighting juvenile delinquency. The building as it is now planned is a fine showcase but there is no place in it to manufacture. There is no place for the dramatic club to rehearse and no craft rooms in which returned men can take up or follow hobbies. These could go into a separate building but they must certainly be planned for."

Rudy Kenzius, chairman of the public school board: "I am in favor of a municipal auditorium as a war memorial only if it is a good one. I am in favor of the proposed site, but the plans as they now are are wholly inadequate. The auditorium which is planned has a flat floor and we already have three auditoriums in town with flat floors. The plans have included two very small dressing rooms which would be completely inadequate if a play were to be presented. The plans call for a very large kitchen but only a relatively small dining-room and no swimming pool is included in the plans. No provision is made for a library, for rooms for other recreational purposes or for crafts. The building would be just a white elephant. If they spent a little money on the town hall as it now stands they would have a better building than these plans would permit."

Mrs. Ted Mitchell, convenor of handicrafts for the Home and School Association: "I am in favor of the memorial auditorium but there should be more provision made for committee rooms. The idea of a memorial is a good one but the things that are planned are not quite what we need—rooms where small groups can gather. I am in favor of the proposed site. I do not approve of the present plans. The kitchen is too large. The auditorium is fine and the plan is nice but with a little alteration there could be small rooms for the art group, the music society, orchestra society and craft groups over the kitchen and the dining-room. If these alterations were made we could organize the teenagers into craft groups. There are plenty of young people if they only had a place to gather. As it is now there is no place for them to meet."

W. J. Geer, chairman of the Newmarket high school board: "I am definitely in favor of the proposed memorial auditorium, but because of personal circumstances I feel that I am not at liberty to make any comment on the proposed site. I would like to see other plans made which might be more suitable. Everything depends on the purpose to which the hall is to be put, whether the present plans are adequate or not."

ON THE ALLEYS

By ROY CHANT

Smith's Bowling Alley

The championship of the town bowling league was won last week by Bowser's, who defeated Bender's in the finals by 205 points. Bowser's were league leaders nearly all season and proved they were real champions in the play-offs.

Bowser's should prove a threat to any league team in the district and no doubt would accept any challenge. Bowlers making up this strong team are R. Gibson, C. Tugwell, W. Newton, M. Crowder, C. VanZant and C. Macafee.

In last week's finals, R. Wilson of Bender's was high three with 723 (280, 225), closely followed by C. Tugwell of Bowser's with 721 (264, 258). Other good scores for the night were R. Gibson 712 (291, 238), C. VanZant 664 (245, 211), I. Day 650 (267, 236).

On the season's bowling prizes were won by W. Newton with high three flat of 902. E. Fairway won high three handicap with 907. I. Day captured the high single flat for the season with 381 and the high single handicap was won by E. Crone with 340.

Last Monday night the S.S.S. team of the ladies' league increased its eight-point lead by four. Flossie Campbell led the ladies for the night with a high three of 613 (274). Other good scores were made by Marg VanZant, 590, Mona Dean, 589, Marion Stark, 585, and Mimi Giovannelli, 582.

There was no game with the men's team last Thursday night as scheduled but the ladies are still anxious to reverse the defeat the men gave them a couple of weeks ago.

Don's Bowling Alley

Last Friday evening, paced by the sharp shooting of Ernie Benitz with a sizzling three of 875, the south team captured the town championship by defeating the north team by a close margin of 52 points. It was really a heart-breaker for the north team which has lost two close games to its rivals. The north team has failed to hold up in its last game and that has been the big difference as the south team has always appeared a strong finisher.

This has been a grand series between these two strong teams and the north team, although having lost two close games, is not thoroughly convinced and has challenged the south team to one more game. The south team has accepted the challenge and is out to make it really convincing this time, so a hard battle is looked forward to by many bowling fans this Friday night at Don's bowling alley. Be sure not to miss this one.

Stan Smith led the north team with a score of 755 (296, 245). A Bray with 683 (303, 203) and Ken Tansley's score of 606 (239, 205) were next highest for the north. Ernie Benitz with 858 (295, 289, 274), C. Tugwell with 634 (253, 215) and R. Gibson's score of 600 (240, 198) paced the south team.

In the Davis Leather league on Tuesday night, B. Pettit's team was high for the evening with 3,082 but S. Smith's team still tops the league with just a few more nights of bowling left.

Frank Bothwell was high man for the evening with a grand score of 708 (341, 201). Fine scores were also made by S. Smith with 677 (265, 238), D. Smith 660 (320, 194), L. Wright 646 (234, 223), P. Pettit 634 (229, 203) and B. McHale 610 (215, 211).

Udora Imports Defeat Blues For Consol's Cup

In the first revival of the British Consols cup series at Uxbridge arena since war years, Udora "Imports" defeated Zephyr Blues in straight games, 4-2 and 7-2. Udora and Zephyr battled it out all year in the eight-club circuit and in the semi-final round the "Imports" defeated Mount Albert while Port Perry defaulted to the Blues. Cec Carpentier, Sutton, handled the series.

Reason for the use of the word "Imports" by the Udora team is that with Udora entered and below par in strength on its own, it used players from Stauffville when the latter centre failed to obtain an entry in the league. "Kick" Paisley, Jake Baker, "Swift" Tod and Fred Williams of the 1946 Ballantrac club played with Udora, along with Ken Laushway and "Turk" Nicholson. Stauffville, and Jack Runney, Richmond Hill juniors. Arthur, Bruce and Harvey Westgarth are a trio of homebrew brothers on the Udora team. Other north-easterners are E. and G. Bain, M. McKnight and I. Whitefield.

Richmond Hill high school junior hockey team won the junior high school title last week as it defeated Aurora high school 5-0 in a sudden-death game at the Hill which should have been played with water wings. Warren Hall in the Hill goal, Jim Mansbridge, Stan Ransom, George Clarke and Ray Stundon were the goal getters for the winners.

SIGNS OF SPRING!

President Charlie Rowntree has donned the war paint and sent up smoke signals, as well as pounding the drums, to inform those interested that the North York lacrosse league will definitely function this year in both intermediate and junior lacrosse. The warriors and braves will meet in solemn conclave at Maple on Wednesday, April 3, at 8 o'clock. It will be "something" to see the pipe of peace smoked for the first and probably the last time of the season. A warm welcome is extended by Charlie to anyone interested in Canada's national game.

Here's what's rumored prior to the meeting: Weston will be in the circuit with intermediate and junior entries. The juniors played last year in the O.L.A. series. Woodbridge will be back with two strong teams and so will Maple. The olive branch is being waved frantically to have Combines, who played at Aurora last summer, amalgamate with Richmond Hill, who dropped out of competition in intermediate in mid-season. The Hill arena is said to be more than passingly interested in this phase of things but it may take some talking. Aurora juniors, who made such a fine showing last year, are practically intact except for Phil Davidson, in training with the Navy at Esquimaux, B.C. They won't have Lyle Sparks as a backer this year as Lyle has purchased a metal plant at Bolton and presumably will be too busy with his new interests to devote any time to lacrosse. Cliff Chapman, who started the club last season, is once again in Aurora and will doubtless be prepared to lend a hand again. It's highly probable that the Aurora branch, Canadian Legion, will be interested in promoting the Aurora youngsters this season. All over Ontario there are signs that lacrosse is in for big year and it's refreshing to see so much interest in North York.

CUM LAUDE!

With the hockey season over for all the activities of the Aurora Lions club, the trophies to be awarded have been decided upon as well as the trip to the O.H.A. junior hockey school. Captain Bill Mundell was chosen by his teammates to represent Aurora juniors at Maple Leaf Gardens. Goalie Eric Smith might well have had the trip but he told his mates that working conditions would prevent it. Mundell will give Aurora adequate representation but it should be remembered that Bill has been given the look-see two years in a row by the Junior A clubs. He can still play junior next year.

Ronnie Simmons, as leading scorer, gets the Tip Top trophy, resurrected from security by W. R. "Mac" McQuade and presented for the first time this season. Eric Smith will be presented with the Frank Underhill trophy, awarded annually for the player displaying the best sportsmanship, gentlemanly conduct and all round ability. Mac Urquhart will carry home the Stewart Patrick trophy, won in the bantam series by Rangers. The above quartet will receive the awards at the next Lions' meeting. Lack of space will prevent the annual hockey dinner for all teams being held this year.

Harry Caradonna, Newmarket, Bill Boychoff, Bradford, and Howard Forgie, Markham, have been picked by their fellow players to attend the O.H.A. school and coach Ike Harper, with a championship dangle in front of his nose, is wisely enough taking his time at having a choice made to represent Stauffville-Victoria Square. Harmony in the dressing room is more important to the team right now than a trip for one of its members and it sometimes takes but little to bring a bit of dissension into a club, especially as the end of a long season looms in sight and nerves become a bit frayed.

On the play there can't be much wrong with the choices made and the boys did it themselves, but we believe the intention was to take future prospects before the eyes of the pro scouts and that means youngsters of 16 and 17. If you haven't made junior A by 18, your chances are very slim, as the clubs won't invest in a one-year player unless he's a standout. Clubs would probably benefit for the future by choosing a younger player who has ability. Caradonna and Forgie both are out of junior next year, while Mundell and Boychoff have still another term.

"Our Boy Clapper", currently leading his Boston Bruins in a hectic series with Les Canadiens, took time out recently to air his views on present-day hockey as compared with the past.

THE MOVING FINGER WRITES HOCKEY HISTORY

Markham intermediates have worked their way to a position that should take them to the intermediate B finals. As predicted, they had a bit too much class for Bucko McDonald and his Sundridge huskies, but it was the keenest competition yet and the former big leaguer gave a four-star performance as his team went down with colors flying. Left in the fight for fame and fortune are Grimsby and Sarnia, Milverton and Walkerton. Markham is the champ of the east and the north. It only remains for Western Ontario to provide the opposition.

Victoria Square has been idle a week and coach Ike Harper has his nails bitten down to the quick as his charges await the havoc created by mild weather acting upon natural ice. It looks like the Square for the finals and it has managed to get in one practice at Stauffville, but will be working out at Oshawa, too. Goderich, on the strength of its convincing win over New Hamburg, looks like the logical finalist and will be tough opposition. Orangeville has eliminated Hespeler and will meet Goderich in the next round. That gives the west a bit of an edge in keeping in shape but Harper and his boys are ready for any eventuality.

Humber Summit was carded to meet Breslau for the O.R.H.A. intermediate A championship last night at Waterloo and Son Rowntree and his playmates enjoyed a full dress workout at Ravina on Sunday night in their prep for the rubber match. Stroud, which showed its wares against Inglewood at Newmarket in the B rural series, at last report was to meet up with Selkirk from Oxford county in the finals. Alliston bowed out of the senior O.R.H.A. series to Crowland, which lost out to Sutton Greenherts in the A finals last year. Crowland is one game up on Cavuga, which defeated Alliston last year, and took the all-rural crown from Sutton as well. Beeton Juveniles reached the finals in the farm minor series but dropped two straight games to a Western Ontario club in the finals. It was a nice showing, however, by the neighboring kids.

Bowmanville defeated Bolton in the O.M.H.A. juvenile B series to win the championship. Madoc, conquerors of Keswick, is still waiting to meet Elmira in the midwest C series. Lindsay is down one game to Port Colborne in the midwest B series after eliminating Collingwood which took Newmarket Legionnaires. The series may not be finished as Lindsay's bus crashed with the team aboard en route to the final game. Ferguson appears to have the finals in bantam C clinched against Sundridge, the successors in the east to Sutton kids.

Midgets Win In Toronto To Remain In Cup Hunt

GEO. HASKETT, JR.

Newmarket midgets are still in the hunt for the Toronto hockey league, King Clancy series, midwest championship. On Tuesday night, at Lealandia rink (North Toronto), they helped their quest considerably by registering a 6-4 win over Toronto St. Margaret's.

The game turned into a close-checking contest, no doubt because of the small ice surface. Both squads laid down a great cleckling barrage. Fred Hall's charges moved into a 4-3 lead in the opening session, on goals by Ron Coveney, Laurie Thoms, Don Gibson and Don Duncan. Doug Mowat beat Bob Winch in the Newmarket nets for two marksmen. Jack Thorn picking up the other counter.

Early in the final frame Doug Mowat found the rigging for his third tally and moved St. Margaret's up even with the Legion-son's goal with his second and third counters. "Jing" Groves was the helper on both, Cliff Gunn also getting in on the second after he had moved up from his blueline work and fed the disc to Groves, who promptly relayed it to centreman Collings. Snack off the starting whistle in the final session, Collings came up with his fourth goal of the night. It was unassisted, Collings having to bang away with three or four shots before finally parking the rubber behind Carr. This boosted Hoffman into a 7-2 lead. The Vets moved to the offensive and laid siege to the Hoffman net and were finally rewarded at the 13-minute mark, "Mac" MacDonald doing the honors with Normie Legge setting up the play for his teammate. The Vets kept the pressure on until the final bell, to be sure, but with goals "Mickey" Smith playing a cool effective game in front of the rigging, they were held from further scoring. "Mickey" Smith was certainly a top star of the proceedings for his work in this period. Final score, Canadian Hoffman 7, Newmarket Vets 2.

Liked the defensive work of Joe Peat at the Hoffman blueline. He was tossing out the body checks with vim and vigor. The series marked the return of Joe Magani to the factory line-up and on both occasions turned in creditable performances. The Hoffman front line trio, Collings, Groves and Stevens, performed in such a manner as to bring the smiles back to the faces of coach Father McCabe and manager Johnny Campbell after the recent Markham series.

Right winger, Geo. Stark started in the Vets cause, checking in with a goal and an assist. Stark was particularly dangerous on the attack. Myles MacInnis did duty on left wing and Coach Larry Molyneux dressed also had a goal and assist only ten of the Vets for the game. Hoffman: goal, M. Smith; def. A. Wolf, H. Caradonna; centre, M. Collings; wings, E. Stevens, B. Groves; alt., H. Tunstead, Magani, H. Simpson, E. Broughton, D. Dennis, M. Jelley. Smith, B. Peterman, J. Peat.

Vets: goal, P. Carr; def., Perry, W. Bone; centre, B. Johnston; wings, G. Stark, M. MacInnis; alt., I. Stepak, R. Gibson, N. Legge, M. MacDonald. Referee: Bill Thoms, Toronto linesman, "Joan" McComb, Newmarket.

Hoffman Hockey Record For Season Impressive

GEO. HASKETT, JR.

Getting in a resume of the Canadian Hoffman hockey activity, coach Father T. J. McCabe and manager Johnny Campbell have every right to be proud of the impressive string of victories registered by their stalwarts in their first year.

In mercantile competition they won nine games with but a single loss to mark their string. The loss was to Richmond Hill Vets. In exhibition contests they carried off the honors over Orangeville (4-2) and Sutton (9-4), intermediate B's, tied Gravenhurst Indians 2-2 and lost a 9-2 decision to the Indians. They also lost a close 3-2 setback chalked up by Georgetown intermediate A team. In two games with the Newmarket Vets they emerged victorious in both, 8-5 and 7-3.

In the third round of the O.H.A. intermediate B play-downs, they were defeated and eliminated by Markham in two games. The score of the first was 12-0, the second 9-3.

In all, the record shows they blinked the red light 119 times, while the opposition talked but 72.

The scoring record for all games reads as follows:

G. A. P. Pen.	In Min.
"Mutt" Collings	20 15 35 27
Bolmer Groves	18 12 30 41
F. Tunstead	15 2 17 12
Joe Magani	10 8 16 8
Herbie Simpson	10 5 15 2
